WEDNESDAY, JUNE 24. 1741.

To the DAILY GAZETTEER.

T is presumed that a Review of the French Admiral Pointy's Expedition against Cartagena in 1697, as it is here related in short, from the most authentick Accounts of it that were published soon after, will not be unacceptable to your Readers at this Juncture. Your's,
W. S.

Pointy arrived on the 13th of April, 1697, before Cartagena, with fourteen Men of War from 50 to 80 Guns; ten Privateers from 15 to 30; and eight other Ships. He attack'd and took the Isle of Bocca-chica, within two Miles of Cartagena, with the Loss of 16 Sloops, 3 Bomb-Gallots, 2000 Men, having been repuls'd no less than twice. 'Twas said there were 10000 Men in Town well arm'd and as well provided with Ammunition. There were several Forts besides the fort which stopp'd his Progress, so that it was seven Days before the Town capitulated. The French lost 34 of their Officers, and Pointy himself was slightly wounded. The Viscount Coetlogons, who commanded under him, was killed. The Equipping of the Squadron, as the French themselves own'd, a Million and a half of Livres; and besides the Officers above-mention'd they lost 1500 Soldiers, 700 Buccaneers before the Town. The Fort St. Lazar, the Fort on the Bridge, and the Upper Town, were taken by Storm; and when the Garrison of the Lower Town march'd out with their Arms, they were 1800 strong. The Galleons which they hoped to find there, were gone to Porto Bello before his Arrival, and the Inhabitants having timely Warning were fled with their best Effects to Country, so that the French plunder'd the Cities, because the Town had not Treasure enough to satisfy their Demands. 'Twas said that he intended to have kept Possession of Cartagena, and had his Officers and Soldiers for that End, but was smitten by a great Mortality among his Men, that forc'd him to abandon it on the First of June, when he return'd for Europe with his Squadron much shat-tered, and the Men so sickly, that when they came to their own Coast they were forc'd to perform a certain. The Admiral lost above half of his Men in his Expedition; the Number which he left back being only 2000, out of 4800, and of these 800 were immediately put into the Hospital at

AUTHOR of the DAILY GAZETTEER.

Having a Prose Version of HORACE's Odes now publishing in Numbers, it was expected that if another were published, it would excel this, or at least equal it; whether it does either, the Public may judge by comparing a few of the Odes, of which I now send you a few publishing in Numbers, and sold by J. Davidson.

BOOK I. ODE IX.

To THALIARCHUS.

I see that Mount Soraete is all white with Snow, and the over-loaded Forests are ready to sink under a Weight, and that the Rivers are stopped by a severe Frost; expel then, dear Thaliarchus, by not sparing your Wood, and much less your old Wine you keep in Sabine Casks. Give the rest to the Gods, who have no sooner appeared than the Winds wrelling against the foaming Waves of the Sea, than the Cypresses and Ashes of the highest峰 are in profound Rest. Enquire not into what may happen to Morrow, but reckon what Days shall further allow you, as so many gained. Spend yourself in Mirth and Pleasure, while peevish Nature is yet at a Distance. Appear in the Campus Martius, and in the publick Places: Repair to those noble Meetings in the Dusk of the Evening, where they whisper one another in the Ear; and lose not the Opportunity of those Assemblies where the wanton young Ladies hide themselves in a Corner; and then discover by their Laugh where they are, and with an affected Resistance part with a Bracelet from their Arm, or a Ring from their Finger.

Mr. Watson's Version.

BOOK I. ODE IX.

To THALIARCHUS.

O Thaliarchus, Master of the Feast, do you not see that the Mountain Soraete stands white with deep Snow, and the over-loaded Woods are not now able to bear the Weight of the Snow, and the Rivers have flood together (are frozen) by the sharp Frost?

Dissolve the Cold, laying Wood plentifully upon the Fire: and draw liberally out of your Cellar Wine four Years old, out of the Sabine Cask made of Earth.

Leave the Care of other Things to the Gods: who as soon as they have stilled the Winds fighting with the raging Sea, neither the Cypress nor wild Ash Trees are shaken any more.

What is to be to-morrow forbear to enquire after: and reckon that for Gain, which Chance shall give you for each Day of your Life.

While you are a young Man, neither despise your sweet Amours, nor Balls, as long as peevish old Age is at a Distance from you, a Youth in the Prime of your Age. For now when you shall become old, both the Field of Mars, publick Market places, and the pleasant Whispers of Lovers towards Night, will be frequented by you at the appointed Hour.

Now when you are a young Man, and may be present at the Plays in which Laughing is heard from the secret Corner, the pleastant betraying of the Maid lurking, standing hid, and the Pledge taken either from her Arms or Finger, making small Resistance, is given.

The Translator of the Version sold by J. Davidson, submits it to the Publick, which of these two Versions is fittest not only for Gentlemen, but for the Use of Schools; and desires the Vindicator of Mr. Watson's Version would in his Comparison defend the several Errors of his Version of this Ode, particularly those in the fourth and fifth Paragraphs, in the last of which he expressly contradicts Horace.

Yesterday arriv'd a Mail from Holland.

Extract of a Letter from Constantinople, May 13. N.S.

AFFAIRS with regard to Persia seem to wear another Face. Kouli Kan's Ambassador does not behave with so much Pride and Arrogance as he did, and on the other hand he is treated with all the Distinction possible, especially since he deliver'd the Presents from his Master to the Porte and the Ministers, which Presents are very magnificent, particularly one Diamond weighing 108 Carats, three most beautiful Virgins for the Grand Signor's Seraglio, and above seven Camels laden with Presents fit for the Ladies of the Seraglio. From these Circumstances 'tis suppos'd that an Accommodation is not only on foot with Persia but an Alliance, in which there's the more Reason to believe the Porte is sure of succeeding, because the Orders that were issued for sending Troops and Provisions to Asia are recalled. On the other hand, great Preparations are making by Sea, and Troops are filing towards the Frontiers in Europe.

Petersburgh, June 6. N.S. M. Botta, the Queen of Hungary's Plenipotentiary here, has declar'd to her Imperial Highness, That the King of Prussia will not hearken to any Accommodation which requires the Departure of his Troops from Silesia as a Preliminary. The Difficulties that retarded the French Ambassador's Publick Audience of the Emperor are now remov'd, and we hear that when his Excellency comes into his Apartment, the Great Dukes his Mother is to hold him in her Lap; that the Duke of Brunswick his Father, and all the Ministers of the Court, are to be present at the Audience; that the Ambassador is to make a suitable Discourse upon the Occasion, and that then he is to deliver his Credentials to her Imperial Highness. Mean time the young Monarch who has cut but one Tooth yet is in perfect Health, and has his third Nurse to attend him.

Petersburgh, June 2. Our Ministers are not a little pleased with the Dispatches they have receiv'd from M. de Rumanzow, the Russian Ambassador at Constantinople, which, among other Particulars, bring repeated Assurances of the Grand Signor's sincere Intention to observe the Treaty of Belgrade; and that what still remain'd to be adjusted between the Two Courts, was not of such a Nature as that it could prejudice the Good Understanding between the Two Empires, founded on that Treaty. We have heard upon the same Occasion, but whether it comes from General Rumanzow or one of his People we know not, that the Divan have lately begun to take into Consideration the Balance of Power in Europe, a Topic which of all Foreign Subjects the Turks never yet thought in the least worthy of their Regard. It seems that several of the Members of the Divan exclaim'd at first against the Novelty of the Subject; but that those who brought it upon the Carpet, gave so good an Account of what they had learnt from the Ambassador of England upon this important Affair, that by degrees the whole Divan came into their Opinion, and acknowledg'd that it was for the Interest of the Ottoman Empire that the Forces of Christendom should remain shar'd, as they are, between the Families that are in present Possession of them.

Vienna, June 14. N.S. The Gold Statue, being the Weight of the Young Arch-duke when he was first born, is now shew'd at Court, and will be sent to Innsbruck, to be offer'd at the Altar of the Miraculous Image of the Blessed Virgin Mary, to which her Majesty has a particular Devotion. As some of the Ceremonies attending the Coronation of a King of Hungary are to be perform'd on Horseback, her Majesty has rid several times lately, that she may do it then with the better Grace. Her Coronation will certainly be on Sunday the 25th Instant, as is express'd on the Medals, which are, by Order of the Court, to be distributed on that Occasion. Her Majesty has receiv'd the Deputies from the Hungarian Protestants very graciously, and promised them that she will take care that all their Grievances, which are well founded, shall be redress'd, and confirm those who profess the Protestant Religion in the Enjoyment of the Privileges to which they have a Title. Te Deum has been sung, and there has been a most grand and solemn Procession here, by way of Thanksgiving to God, for the Deliverance from the Plague, which has reign'd for three or four Years past, but is now quite ceas'd, in Hungary and the neighbouring Provinces.

Vienna, June 17. N.S. This Morning the Count de Neuperg in Silesia, with Advice that the King of Prussia's Army return'd on the 13th to Grottkau from the Camp at Freywalde near Neiss; that the Hussars took several Waggon's and Prisoners in their Rear, and that about 370 Desert & from their Army came to Neiss and Otmachau in three Days time. There being to be a Cavalcade on the Queen's Coronation Day, when her Majesty in the Tour ament is to flourish her Sword three times in the Air, she is learning for that Purpose to ride in the American Dres.

Breslau, June 20. N.S. On the 9th, after the King of Prussia had given Audience to the Lord Hyndford and General Ginkle in his Camp at Grotskau, he set out to rejoin the Army. The Prussian Hussars supported by four Battalions of Grenadiers forc'd the Enemy's Hussars to the Number of 4000 from the Post of Frywalde, after which the Army encamp'd there. On the 12th the Prussians also drove the Enemy's Hussars from Mogwitz, and burnt their Huts, whereupon they retir'd under the Cannon of Neiss. The King's Aim in advancing that Way was to draw the Austrian Army to an Engagement, but not succeeding, he has caus'd a Forage to be made in all the neighbouring Villages, to deprive the Enemy of all manner of Subsistence. On the 13th the Army decamp'd from Frywalde, during which the Enemy's Hussars fell upon the Baggage and carry'd off four Forrage Wagons, a Cargo of Beer, &c. but they lost 40 or 50 Men on the Spot, besides 38 Men and a Lieutenant that were taken Prisoners. The King has been incamp'd since the 15th near the Village of Hermendorff, so that the Army is again drawn near this City. Twenty Squadrons of Dragoons are expected every day from Prussia.

Hanover, June 23. N. S. The Baron d'Uterdt the King of Poland's Envoy Extraordinary, who arriv'd the 20th from London, waited on the King next day at Herrenhausen, where he had the Honour to dine with his Majesty, and is treated by this Court with great Distinction. His Majesty had a long Conference Yesterday with his Ministers on the Receipt of an Express from the Lord Hyndford in Silesia the Day before with an Account of the Representations that have been made to the King of Prussia, and this Day the Express was sent back. The Baron de Jaxheim has receiv'd one from Vienna, upon which Occasion he has renew'd his Instances for the March of the Danish and Hessian Troops. The Prussian Minister the Count de Trusches Walbourg had a long Conference lately with the King's Ministers at Herrenhausen, wherein we hear he expres'd himself in very strong Terms against the inflexible Adherence of the Court of Vienna to their former Resolutions. 'Tis said the King has sent new Instructions to all his Ministers at the several Courts of the Empire, relating in part to the Declarations that have been made there by the Marshal de Belle Isle, whose Arrival here is still uncertain. Prince William (and not Prince Frederick) of Hesse Cassel who has been here some time has frequent Conferences with the King in private, and having inform'd his Majesty that the 6000 Hessians in his Pay were ready to march, he made him Answer, That he had all the Dependance that could be upon those Troops, but that he hop'd Matters would be accommodated with regard to Silesia.

Notwithstanding what is said in the Extract of a Letter from Constantinople in our last Paper, they have Advice from thence at Vienna, that a Rupture with Persia is unavoidable; and that they even talk of arresting the Persian Ambassador, upon pretence that he has transgress'd the Bounds to which the Conduct of Public Ministers is confin'd by the Law of Nations.

Some Advices from the Hague intimate, that tho' the Republick seems in no great Haste to assist the Queen of Hungary in the Manner she desires, they intend to do her another Piece of Service of more Importance; and that besides the Good Offices which they are using with the King of Prussia, to persuade him to withdraw his Forces from Silesia, they are actually negotiating a Treaty of Neutrality for the Netherlands with the French Court, on the Footing of that of 1733. This has been at least the Report at the Hague for some Days past, and considering how little the Republick has been inclined to War for a great while, 'tis not improbable.

After the Corsair had discover'd the Bark was of no Force, and inflicting on the Passengers being delivered, a Quarrel ensued, in which the Captain of the Rover and several Moors were killed; but the French being overpow'rd, were kill'd. During the Action, two of the Jews and two of the Frenchmen had started some large Wine Casks and hid themselves, and by that Means escap'd. The Tunisians, after having plunder'd the Vessel left her at Sea, when these four Persons brought her into the Island of Ponzo, about 15 Leagues from Ischia, and give this Report.

Letters from Cadiz of the 13th of June N. S. say, that the Nine Spanish Men of War which sail'd from thence some time past for Ferrol, return'd into their Bay the Day before, with two Men of War which join'd 'em at Ferrol and one from Vigo.

THE Author of PAMELA; or, Virtue Rewarded, thinks fit, once for all, to give the following Answer to the scurrilous Papers and Advertisements that have been scattered about the Town, by Persons who can say any thing, and have no other View in it, than to promote the Sale of a wretched Performance called Pamela in High-Life, which debases all the Characters in his Two Volumes; viz.

"That when any Person who is above Scandal and scandalous Practices, shall say any thing worthy of Notice, and set his Name to what he publishes, he shall receive a proper Reply.

To the PUBLICK.

Certain Booksellers having published a Pocket Volume, intituled, Pamela's Conduct in High Life; Printed, as pretended (with equal Truth and Honesty) from her Original Papers; The Author of the Two Volumes, intituled, PAMELA, or VIRTUE REWARDED, (of which Piece this Performance is intended to pass as a Continuation) in order to assert his Right to his own Plan, and to prevent such an Impostor on the Publick, thinks himself obliged to declare, That this pretended Continuation of that Piece was undertaken without his Knowledge, carried on against his Remonstrances, and without any other acquaintance with the Story, than what they have been able to collect from the Two Volumes, so kindly received: And

That his OWN CONTINUATION will be printed with all convenient Speed, from Materials in his Hands, which no other Person can have; and which, but for such an Invasion of his Plan, he should hardly have found Leisure to digest and publish.

The Under-mentioned Names to this worthy Ingratiation are thus advertis'd, with their Honest Work, in the Champion of May 29, viz.

"Printed for Caesar Ward and Richard Chandler, at the Ship without Temple-bar, John Wood and Charles Woodward, at the Dove in Carter-noster Row; and Thomas Waller, in the Middle-Temple Cloisters;" Whereas, the GENUINE CONTINUATION will be published by Mr. Charles Rivington, in St. Paul's Church-yard; and Mr. John Osborn, in Pater-noster Row, Proprietors of the Two Volumes.

NB. In the Gazetteer of Thursday June 4, and the Advertiser of Saturday June 6, is a faithful SPECIMEN of this HIGH LIFE Performance: And the Publick is assur'd, that (bad as it is) 'tis one of the best-written Parts of their Volume.

¶ The said Specimen may be had gratis of Mr. Rivington and Mr. Osborn, above-mentioned.

For the immediate Cure of BARRENNESS in WOMEN, tho' of many Years Continuall, proceeding from what Cause soever.

And also of IMPOTENCY in MEN, however occasion'd, & long Standing,

The Famous and Inestimable PROLIFIC Elixir.

The biggest, richest and most powerful Cordial in the world is recommended,

BEING the only true and infallible Cordial for BARRENNESS in Women and Impotency in Men, and which it at once accomplishes without Trouble, even after all other Remedies have been tried. Thousands have experienced, and that by promoting the Circulation of the Blood and Juices, raising all the spirits from their languid, depressed State, to one more brisk, sparkling, opening all Obstructions, fortifying the body, and evidently replenishing the enfeebled Animal Spirits, restoring a Juvenile Habit, and with a generous Warmth and balsom Mixture, thereby invigorating it to such a Degree as not to be equalled, but by those who have experienced how exceedingly infallible it renovates, recruits, and powerfully strengthens the Animal Faculties, and Generative Powers in both Sexes, and inforces a bright, lively Disposition, banishes Melancholy, inspires Mirth and Gladness of Heart beyond Expression, and abundance of Ladies, who for several Years were entirely Barren, have after twice taking it, conceived and brought forth fruitful; and great Numbers of Gentlemen, who, from a fast living, or otherwise, had render'd themselves incapable of procreation, have soon been enabled by it to propagate their Species, insomuch, that very many illustrious Families, for want of Children, were almost inconsolable, are now with happy Issue, and are (under Providence) indeed Great Medicine for their Heirs. It rectifies all Diseases of the Stomach, creates an Appetite, procures a good Digestion, and in all Weaknesses of Body, or Decay of Constitution, is a most infallible Restorative, and even lessens the Effects of Old Age itself. It is to be taken by Drops at a Time, has a very fine Flavour, is pleasant to the Palate, Cordial to the Stomach, and can be had only in Two Blue Pots in Haydon-Yard in the Minories, or in a Bottle, with Directions.
